DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Election of Species

This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The applicant is required to perform an election of species in two categories. One category is in regards to the starting material. The other category is in regards to the change in shape of the skew-rolled, approximately straight rod.

For the category involving the starting material, the species are as follows:

- i. Spring steel (claim 18).
- ii. Silicon-chromium steel (claim 19).
- iii. Microalloyed steel (claim 20).

For the category involving the change in shape of the skew-rolled, approximately straight rod, the species are as follows:

- i. Wound into a coil spring (claim 21).
- ii. Bent into a stabilizer (claim 22).
- iii. Remains approximately straight and its ends are worked (claim 23).

Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species in each category to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Art Unit: 1709

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

No claims are generic.

The species listed in the two categories above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: For the category involving the starting material, the species listed are all different types of steel, in which the combinations of elements composing the steel vary. As a result, the species would require different searches, creating a burden for the examiner. Similarly, for the category involving the change in shape of the skew-rolled, approximately straight rod, the species would require different searches, creating a burden for the examiner.

Lack of unity of the invention may be directly evident "a priori," that is, before considering the claims in relation to any prior art. For example, independent claims to A + X, A + Y, X + Y can be said to lack unity a priori as there is no subject matter common to all claims. In the case of independent claims to A + X and A + Y, unity of invention (i.e. Species) is present a priori as A is common to both claims.

Art Unit: 1709

A telephone call was made to Max Fogiel on September 19, 2007 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C.103(a) of the other invention.

Joint Inventors

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).

Art Unit: 1709
